

We Decide
The Voice for Women In Business
In Our Nation's Capital

March 9, 2009

Leah Brown
Aten Solutions, Inc.

Dear Leah,

It is my distinct pleasure to congratulate you on being named an Enterprising Women of the Year Award winner. We are pleased to see you recognized for your outstanding achievements in business and in your community.

Women Impacting Public Policy partners with women business owners such as you on the issues that affect women and minority business owners around the country. Together our voice has a powerful impact on Capitol Hill, ensuring that the policies and legislation that affect you and your business are at the forefront of our representatives' agendas.

We have included in this e-mail a copy of our Economic Blueprint – The Woman Business Owners Platform for Growth. The Blueprint was created in part with other women's organizations and represents the six fundamental legislative pillars that women business owners identified as key elements in affecting their business growth. The Blueprint shapes our legislative agenda and serves as a guideline for programs and outreach we have designed for this year.

We know that the issues identified in the Blueprint are also of critical importance to you, and we want to invite you to join our organization and be an integral part of the important work that we do. In recognition of your achievement, we are offering you a special discount on our membership levels. Please use the attached membership application in order to receive your discount.

Know your award, and your recognition by Enterprising Women means much to women business owners everywhere. We salute you as you receive rightful recognition for the hard work that you do!

Please accept my warm congratulations.

Barbara Kasoff
President, Women Impacting Public Policy