A10 is MBE Excellence Award Recipient at The Institute of Minority Economic Development 2011 Executive Networking Conference

Pinehurst, N.C. – Leah Brown, President and CEO of A10 Clinical Solutions Inc., was honored with the Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) Excellence Award at The North Carolina Institute of Minority Economic Development \(NCIMED\) 2011 Executive Networking Conference (ENC) in Pinehurst, North Carolina on Friday, March 25, 2011 based on the outstanding business achievements of A10. This event, lasting from Thursday, March 24th to Saturday, March 26th, sponsored by Carolinas Minority Supplier Development Council (CMSDC), also provided Brown an amazing opportunity to speak at the conference during the Awards Dinner.

This annual, sold-out networking conference recognized and paid tribute to Brown, a minority business owner who continues to fuel the economy through business innovation and dedication to economic growth. Brown has been a proud MBE member within the National Minority Supplier Development Council \(NMSDC\) for six years through councils in the regions Carolinas, New York/New Jersey, Maryland/D.C., and Pennsylvania/New Jersey/Delaware.

NCIMED announced Brown and A10 as this year's MBE Excellence Award recipient and was presented by Denise Gatling, Director of Global Supplier Diversity and Business Development at GlaxoSmithKline, who noted, "One of the things that make me proud to be able to support an entrepreneur, is when we, at GSK, give you the opportunity and then once that opportunity is laid out, you take advantage of it. I have to admit, Leah Brown is one of the suppliers that has done that and it shows in the progress and the success she's had with her business."

"This is an award of excellence that cannot be achieved by one person," Brown humbly stated while accepting the honor. "It is the clients such as Denise Gatling at GlaxoSmithKline and the others that have supported A10 when we just started here at this conference six years ago. We were at zero revenue; this year, we will make $30 million!"
